p. One by one, be - - yond re - - call, Sum - - mer's beau - - ties fade and die;

But the ro - - ses bloom a - gain, And the spring will gush a - new,

And the pleas - ant A - pril rain, And the sum - mer's rain and dew.

Con tristezza.

2. So in hours of deep - est gloom, When the springs of glad - ness fail,
 3. Some sweet hope, to glad - ness led, That will spring a - fresh and new,

And the ro - ses in their bloom Drop like maid - ens wan and pale,
 When grief's win - ter shall have fled, Giv - ing place to sun and dew,

We shall find some hope that lies Like a si - lent gem a - part,
Some sweet hope that breathes of Spring, Through the wea - ry, wea - ry time,
