About the artist

Cedricia has recorded and written songs for all ages. Cedricia is an author, lecturer, clinician, and performer. She presents workshops on such topics ranging from dance and music active pedagogy to folk music singing and choir performance practice. She has worked closely with children and has seen the potential for presenting these powerful, yet basically simple skills in a way that could be understood and used by anyone.

She served as a visiting Music Education lecturer, she has gained her experience in diverse sectors such as conservatoires, secondary schools, associations, choirs, bands, colleges and universities. Cedricia has experience coordinating Music Education programs, recruiting and advising students, organizing and supervising music teacher's trainings, developing music education curricula and participating as both member and chair of association committees. She has worked as a Music Education teacher and as a musical artist (music composition, performance). She taught creative music and is fascinated by the questions of musical creativity. She has generated numerous works for young choirs and is active as a guest clinician. She is an active choir conductor.
